

BLACKS CASH IN ON SEX RACKET

PROSTITUTES are helping to finance the Black Power movement in Australia.

A New South Wales police dossier revealed last night claims the whores are used to blackmail wealthy businessmen.

Photos are taken of bedroom orgies — and then money is extorted from the businessmen.

A white woman, said to be a well known former prostitute, is the brains behind the Black Power blackmail.

The dossier, which runs to eight pages, says her chief accomplice is a young university dropout known as the Field Marshal.

He is the national co-ordinator for the blackmailing.

Police in New South Wales have been told to shadow and report on the activities of a large group of Black Power officials.

One 23-year-old extremist, whose photo appears in the dossier, is suspected of involvement in a Sydney murder last August.

Police think he can help them in their inquiries into the shooting murder of black Rugby League star Ambrose Morgan.

He was shot dead in a night club known as a haunt for Black Power followers.
